

PROFESSIONAL DIPLOMA PROGRAM IN SEXUAL & REPRODUCTIVE HEALTH

REVIEWED BY
GRIFFITH UNIVERSITY
QUEENSLAND AUSTRALIA
TO COMPLY WITH RACGP & ACPM STANDARDS

The three-part Professional Diploma of Sexual & Reproductive Health program explores the most common sexual health presentations seen in general practice for both male and female patients and equips medical practitioners with the knowledge to safely screen, diagnose and treat these conditions in the primary care setting, helping you to meet a broad segment of patient demand.

Sexual and reproductive health presentations are a core part of general practice and are relevant to patients across the lifecycle. Out of every 100 patient encounters in general practice, 4.7 are for issues regarding the female genital system, 3.0 are for pregnancy and family planning issues, 2.8 are urological, and 1.2 are for the male genital system. This accounts for 11.7 per cent of general practice work, and does not include encounters for relationship counselling or other sexual health concerns.
